MEMORIAL METHODIST CHURCH ACTIVITIES

Officials of the church are attending tonight, the Annual Set-up Lynchburg District meeting in the Fort Hill Methodist Church. Plans for the New Conference Year will be presented by various District Leaders and the new District Superintendent, Dr. Edgar A. Potts, will preside. As Methodists begin the New Quadrennium, the suggestions promulgated at the recent General Conference of the Church will be presented. The Memorial officials will adapt the suggestions for use in the local church, and announce the same through the various Commissions and Committees, under the direction of the pastor and the chairman of the Official Board.

Peggy Lewis and Sandra Trent are attending the Methodist Youth Fellowship Workshop being conducted this week at the Methodist Assembly Center, Blackstone. Next week, Jane Wilson and Judy Smith will be among the campers at the Methodist Camp Kewanzee, the recently acquired Va. Conference's campsite of 490 acres located along the Blue Ridge Parkway near the Peaks of Otter. One of the Senior Youth will attend the Week-end Retreat to be held at Kewanzee July 16-17.

The pastor is planning now to attend the Southeastern Jurisdictional Conference to be held at Lake Junaluska, near Ashville, North Carolina, July 13-16. This conference comprises the Section of the Methodist Church, formerly known as the Southern Methodist Church and elects their own Bishops and sets up their own particular program of the work for the churches within the jurisdiction. Four new Bishops will be elected at this conference to replace those having retired and died during the past four years.

Two special services of worship and preaching will be held Sunday, following the recently conducted revival services in the church. The pastor will begin a series of sermons at the morning hour on "Modern Messages from Ancient Prophets," using for the theme Sunday, "At East in Zion," based on the Prophecy of Amos. At the evening worship hour, 6:30 o'clock, the message will be based on the First Commandment, using for the title, "Our Jealous God." Members and friends of the congregation are urged to strive to attend each of the messages and sermons of the special series.
